From the desk of the pastor...

After his resurrection, Jesus did not forget his “little flock” of frightened disciples. Knowing that he would not be visibly present among them any longer, he entrusted them all to the care of Peter, as the chief shepherd (Jn 21:15-17) and of all the other apostles (Mt 28:19-20) and their successors. They were to watch over the whole flock the Holy Spirit had entrusted to their care. They were to shepherd “the Church of God which he has acquired at the price of his own blood” (Acts 20:28).

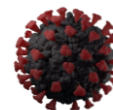

This task is not easy. It can actually be very demanding, indeed, if one takes one's duty seriously and does one's best to imitate the dedication of Christ. The history of the Church has known wonderful examples of spiritual shepherds who have given their life for the good or the defence of their flock. Bishop Romero of El Salvador is one of these heroes in our modern times. Another is Fr. Maximilian Kolbe who saved the life of Franciszek Gajowniczek, by volunteering to die in his place.

We should pray that the Lord may send us many more such shepherds who will prove to all that CHRIST the GOOD SHEPHERD is still alive and cares for the sheep of his flock.

God bless,

Fr. Luis
