From the desk of the pastor...

This Sunday's parable is a warning to us because, as Christians, we must accept God's messengers, prophets, teachers, the hierarchy itself and the Pope and anyone who helps us read the signs of the times and see in them the loving hand of God who urges us to produce "good fruits". These signs would immediately pinpoint areas of deep trouble in our weak faith: immorality in the family, corruptions in the government and scandalous injustices from top to bottom in our society today. We cannot afford to, to be complacent and rest on our traditional forms of piety hoping that being Christians will give us salvation. The Jewish people were deeply religious too and yet lost the Kingdom because their fruits were nowhere to be found.

To be true Christians mean and not to say, "I have not done anything wrong." Christianity is a question of what we have not done but what we do or can do.

Many Catholics are going to Mass on Sundays and are receiving Holy Communion. These are very good things. But if we only remain here in this part and not make any effort to grow in our faith, we are neglecting one of the purposes of the Eucharist, i.e. to show our love for God in our day-to-day life or fight obvious injustices or alleviate the miseries of our suffering brothers and sisters. Also, by loving those who hate us, by forgiving even those who committed grievous sins against us. And by doing so, we become like God who love without condition those who committed sins against Him.

So let us then work hard to make our faith produce real fruits of justice and love. Otherwise, the Lord might take away from us our vineyard.

All the best.

- Fr. Luis
